

Editorial and ethical regulations of the website of the Venzulasca Confraternity

Preamble

The website of the Venzulasca Confraternity aims to promote the company, its history, its activities, its members and the values it defends.

It serves as a space for information, transmission, memory and sharing on the life of the company, the country of Venzulasca, and, in general, the cultural and spiritual heritage of Corsica.

These regulations define the principles that guide the design, publication and management of the content disseminated on the website.

1 – The Identity of the Confraternity

The Confraternity of Venzulasca is deeply attached to its history, its heritage and its territory. The website aims to highlight :

- The history and memory of the Confraternity ;
- The religious, cultural and architectural heritage of the Venzulasca ;
- The traditions and practices of the Confraternity ;
- The Corsican language and culture ;
- The ceremonies, processions and events in which the Confraternity participates;
- The people who, through the generations, have contributed to the vitality of the Confraternity.

Handing down is one of the essential missions of the website: transmitting to future generations what has been entrusted to us by those who came before.

2 - Respect for tradition and openness

The Confraternity is the heir to an ancient tradition, but it also seeks to integrate this tradition into the contemporary world.

The website therefore strives to present the Confraternity faithfully, in its history or its practices over time.

The site is accessible to all those who wish to discover the Confraternity, its heritage and its activities, in a spirit of respect, fraternity and goodwill.

3 - Credibility and verification of information

The information published on this website must be as accurate and reliable as possible.

Particular attention is paid to :

- Verification of dates, names and places ;

- The accuracy of historical information ;
- The identification of sources when necessary ;
- Respect for the context in which photographs, documents and testimonies are presented.

When historical information remains uncertain or is subject to different interpretations, the website undertakes to clarify them.

Identified errors will be corrected to guarantee the quality of the contents.

4 - Respect for people

The Venzulasca Confraternity defends the dignity of everyone.

In the published content there must not be any word that is:

- Insulting or defamatory;
- Discriminatory;
- Hateful or violent ;
- Intended to tear apart a person or a group.

The photos, videos and testimonies that present people are published with respect for their image rights and their personal lives.

5 - Corsican and English

The Corsican language occupies a special position in the cultural identity of the Confraternity.

The site promotes the Corsican language and encourages its use in publications, headings, testimonies and content related to heritage.

At the same time, the use of English makes the site accessible to the widest possible public.

The Confraternity's website can be visited in both Corsican and English.

6 - Photographs, archives and documents

Photographs, archives and documents constitute an important part of the history of the Confraternity.

Their publication must respect :

- The rights of the authors and rights holders ;

- Image rights ;
- Personal life ;
- The complete set of historical documents.

Where their origin is known, documents and photographs are clearly accredited.

Documents entrusted to the Confraternity by individuals must be used with their consent and with consideration of their nature, sometimes personal or family.

7 - Testimonies and collective memory

Testimonies are a valuable resource for understanding the history of the Confraternity and the country.

They can be collected from former members, other members of the Confraternity, villagers of Venzulasca, or anyone who has a relevant story to share.

These testimonies are presented faithfully and, if necessary, placed in their proper context.

Oral stories can sometimes be separated from written historical sources ; however, these differences are respected and should not be artificially erased.

8 - Publications and news

Information related to the activities of the Confraternity is published clearly and with restraint.

The website presents, in particular:

- Religious ceremonies;
- Processions ;
- Meetings and events;
- Cultural activities;
- Knowledge sharing initiatives ;
- The projects of the Confraternity;
- Events in which the Confraternity participates;
- Information on the life of the Confraternity.

Publications must be in accordance with the spirit of the Confraternity and must not be used for purposes that are not related to its mission, in accordance with its statutes.

9 - Independence and neutrality

The website of the Venzulasca Confraternity is not intended to be a space for polemics or political confrontations.

The published contents must promote information, culture, heritage, spirituality, history and life of the Brotherhood.

Respect for individual opinion is a fundamental principle of Brotherhood life.

10 - Comments and contributions from visitors

The site allows visitors to leave messages or comments and to send contributions that must respect the principles of these regulations.

Contributions may be moderated or deleted if they contain, in particular:

- Insulting or defamatory language;
- Ad hominem attacks;
- Discriminatory or hateful remarks;
- Clearly false information;
- Unwanted advertising;
- Content unrelated to the purpose of the site.

An editorial committee will manage the moderation with the objective of maintaining a respectful and constructive exchange space.

11. Advertising and partnerships

Any advertising or partnership featured on the site must be compatible with the image, values, and purpose of the Confraternity of Venzulasca. The editorial committee is responsible for this. Ultimately, the Confraternity retains editorial control over the content published on its site.

12 - Protection of personal data

Any personal data collected via the website is used only for the purposes for which it was communicated.

The Confraternity undertakes to comply with the appropriate rules in terms of personal data protection and not to use the personal information of visitors for purposes not related to its collection.

13 - A living memory

The website of the Venzulasca Confraternity is not only a communication tool.

Over time, it is also intended to become a digital archive of memory, which serves to preserve and transmit the history of the Confraternity, its members, its ceremonies and its heritage.

Each document, photograph or personal story thus contributes to preserving a part of this collective memory.

14 - The spirit of these regulations

These regulations are based on a number of essential principles: Fraternity — Respect — Tradition — Memory — Faith — Culture — Corsican Language — Openness.

These principles must guide all content and activities associated with the website of the Venzulasca Confraternity. The regulations may be updated regularly to reflect the evolution of the site, digital practices and the needs of the Confraternity.
